Alma Mater

Above our school the colors fly
Our black and white so bold
We shall forever honor these
As ever we grow old.

Lift your heart and sing it out,
That East shall rise to fame.

Our Alma mater we will praise,
Central Dauphin East her name.

Panther Pride Co-operation

"BE QUIET OR I'LL TURN YOU ALL INTO TOADS!" Mr. Hoover leads excited students in several cheers at the C.D. pep rally.

"NOW, WHAT PAGE WERE WE ON?" Miss Rupert prepares her lesson plans for the week ahead.

"DO I HEAR A BAAA?" ... Coach Smith pauses amid spirit signs and decorations for the Homecoming game.

"JUST LIKE WASH DAY AT HOME!" Miss Bonzo puts the finishing touches on the decorations for an East High football game.

"LET'S SEE NOW, WHERE WAS THAT AMOEBA?..." Ken Wilson completes lab drawings in Advanced Biology.

"OH, HERE IT IS! ... Football personnel distribute and collect equipment used in games and at practice.

"I WONDER IF THAT CHEM TEST IS GONNA' BE HARD? ...Sue Hoover, choir accompanist, plays the organ for all school activities.

... Service

"COME ON, MURD, GET TO WORK!" Tom Rutherford pauses on the top of the bonfire, waiting for Spirit Club members to hand him more wood.

"HMM! ..." Gwen Alsedek, varsity cheerleader, secures the tail on the Panther before a football game.

LARRY KELLER, CAPTAIN OF THE PANTHER FOOTBALL SQUAD, throws the effigy of a ram onto the bonfire during Homecoming festivities.

V-V-VICTORY!" The varsity basketball team displays their joy after defeating Lancaster for their first league victory of the year.

The varsity football squad receives last minute instructions before going into the gridiron.

Senior Irv Bower gains a well earned victory in the Chambersburg match.

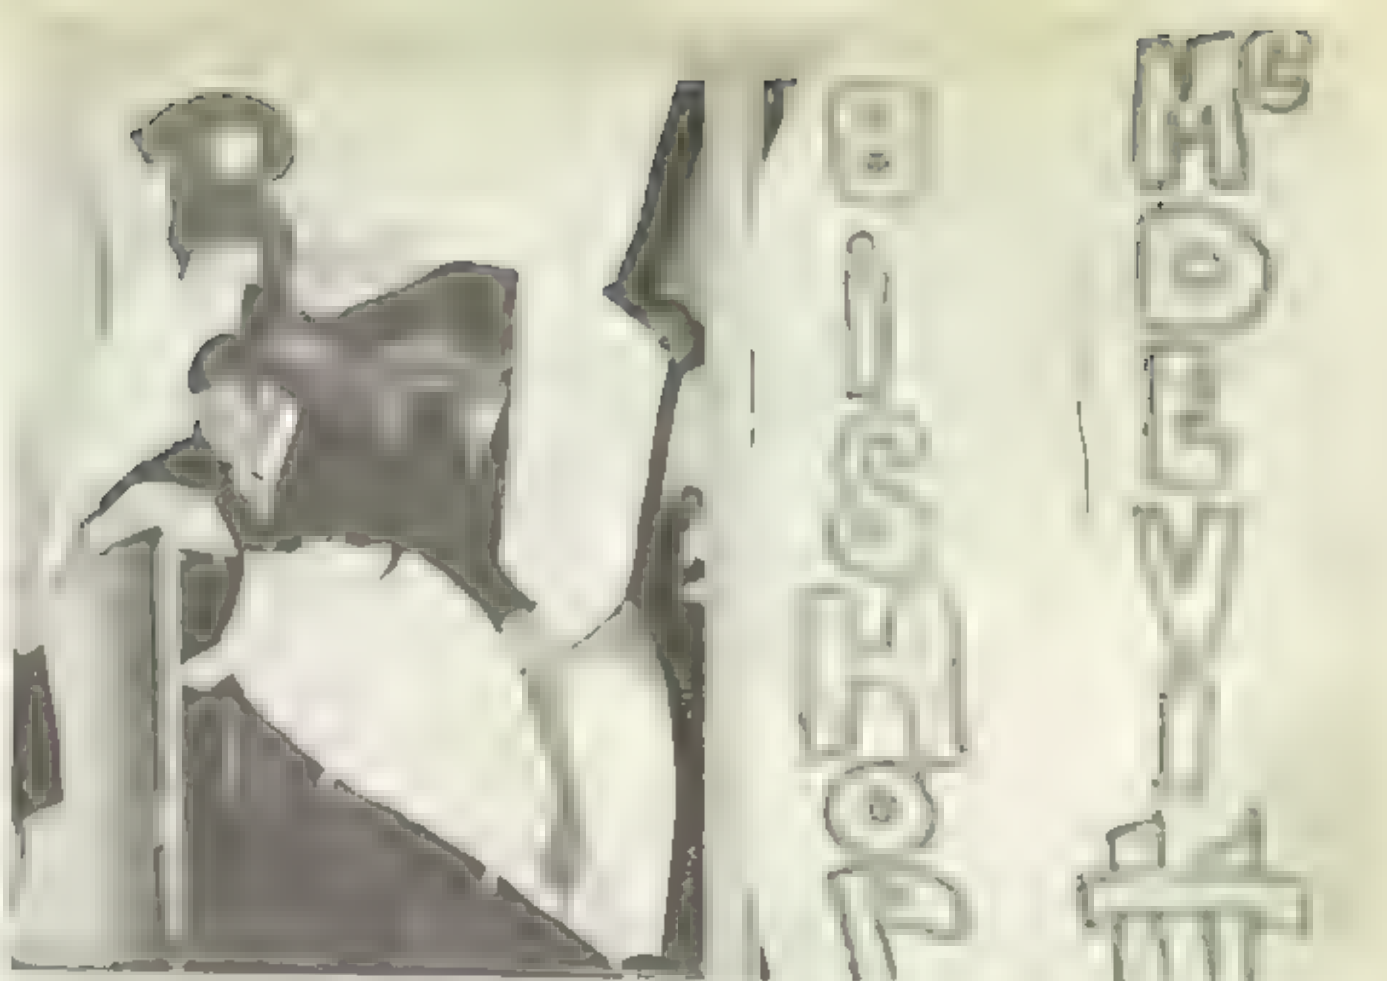

... Pride

"RIP 'EM UP!" Enthusiasm is trait of East's mascot, as seen in Mr. Bolton's own cheer of "Rip 'em up! Tear 'em up!"

Second place in individual debating ability was awarded to Mike Stotnick at the Invitational Speech Tournament.

At the top of the page, Miss Kold (C. Stotnick, Father's Cup) is seen encouraging the beat McDevitt.

"PUT A PANTHER IN YOUR SPIRIT!" East's mascot, the panther, is hung over the front of the press box during football games at Landis Stadium.

"WE'RE THE MIGHTY" Dennis Hiltz takes admiration at the trophies and awards in the foyer showcase.

Faculty. Administration

Every sailing ship is composed of various functioning parts. As important to a school as to a ship are those individuals who design and maintain the proper course. At East High, the navigators are the faculty and administration. The spirit of cooperation established by these individuals is as necessary as the pride of the students. Through the guidance and example of the faculty and administration, Panther Pride is conveyed to academic life. At right: Mr. Smith, Miss Rupert, and Mr. Bolton show their approval of the pre-Homecoming bonfire festivities.

Activities

It was Sophocles who told us, "Justice must be tempered with mercy." That same principle is today applied at East High. An assorted program of extra-curricular activities tempers modern education with mercy. Students at East participate in social and service clubs, holiday festivities, music and sports organizations, and hobby associations. This participation exemplifies East's Panther Pride while simultaneously rounding and developing character in students. At right, Homecoming Queen Kathy Bell and her escort, George Ludwig, enjoy the queen's half time entertainment.

"The Cradle Song"
a Success*

AS ALLELUIAS ECHO throughout the ancient cloistered walls, Sister Joanna of the Cross loses her heart to an infant whom fate has left upon the convent steps.

THE NUN, who, in the play, is called Sister Joanna of the Cross, receives the letter from a distraught mother who has given her baby to these Dominican Nuns, pleading that they rear the child in an atmosphere where she need not be ashamed of her birth.

THE CHILD, ABOUTING THE UNSEEN POWERS A GIVOL, causes the sisters to debate after further as to how it is to be cared for.

EIGHTEEN YEARS HAVE PASSED, and the girl, Teresa, prepares to leave the convent while her mothers finish sewing the garments of her trousseau.

OPPOSITE: Teresa describes to her mother how she has dreamed of being a writer, what she had idealized in the convent and how she has

"I HAVE LIVED HERE EIGHTEEN YEARS and I have never seen a flower box, like a girl in a convent, at least. Teresa is a bit more realistic than others in expressing her gratitude for the kindnesses she has been given.

Achieves Quality of Beauty Seldom Found on Stage

"FORGIVE ME, MOTHER," pleads Sister Marcela, bowing in penance. Her confession to the vicarress' charge accounts not for willful transgression nor vanity, but for the temptations of melancholy during which she would catch a sunbeam in the looking glass and make it dance across the wall of her cell.

Athletics

Any assemblage may facetiously laud itself when victory is imminent. However, in athletics, a scoreboard is often an inadequate measurement of gains. At East High, the emphasis is with pride in victory and improvement through defeat. It is evidenced at East that in the face of disappointment and frustration, courage and desire for achievement have evolved into the prominent factors. Panther Pride is pronounced through every form of athletics at East. At right, Bill Garland, junior quarterback, ponders the Homecoming game while warming his hands over the fire.

Underclassmen

Achievement through the year has never ceased. Underclassmen have learned from the experiences of their peers, from the guidance of their instructors, from the example of those gone before. The year has been one of personal profit, of intellectual gains, of strides toward character and individuality, of new found freedom and responsibility. Caught up in the spirit of Panther Pride, the underclassmen will continue to influence and be influenced by East High School. At right: Janet Smith, Jim Eober, Bill Morris, and Diane Benkevic, underclassmen class officers, display Panther Pride by raising East's flag to lofty heights.

Sophomores Add New Voice to School Opinions

SOUNDS OF EAST HIGH GREETED THE CLASS OF '69 AS THEY BECAME A PART OF HIGH SCHOOL IN SEPTEMBER: "Subscribe now to the Medalist PANTHERAMA," "The Panther needs YOU!" "See East vs. Lebanon Friday...." Exciting and challenging sounds, but not for long strange. Soon, Sophomore voices rivaled those of upperclassmen in "Battlecry," and the rallying call of the Panther was heeded. Under the leadership of President Jim Faber, the annual candy sale was begun. Clubs bulged with Sophomore membership. And now as the 1966-67 school year ends, all sounds and efforts meet as the Class of '69 completes its own sounds.

Morris, Fowler Unite to Perfect Junior Class

NUMBERING OVER 400 THE CLASS OF '68 BEGAN EARLY TO MAKE ITSELF KNOWN IN THE ACTIVITIES AT EAST. After a successful candy drive during their Sophomore year, the class, under the leadership of Bill Morris, planned and produced the Junior-Senior prom. Their second major project was the production of an all-school play. As a third money-making endeavor, the Juniors sold mums for the Homecoming game. Prominent in athletics, clubs, and school projects, the class of '68 proved to be ardent supporters of the Panther, rivaling all classes during "Battlecry" and clearly displaying their pride in being a part of East High.

CLASS OF '68! Bill Morris, President; Richard Fowler, Vice-President; Fran Markunas, Secretary; Diane Benkovic, Treasurer; Linda Peters, Historian.

FRONT ROW: B. Morris, M. Nastof, F. Markunas, D. Koup, L. Peters, D. Benkovic, K. Baldorf, C. Wilmer.

SOMETHING ENTIRELY DIFFERENT. The after school dance sponsored by the PANTHERAMA before the football game attracted a large number of it-minded students.

Seniors

The maturation of character is as important in our lives as the achievements of the mind. Through the formative high school years, the examples have been presented, the guiding suggestions considered and the precedents set. Seniors have received the benefit of the entire scope of school life: the countless activities, the developments of learning, the attainment of character. Seniors, the "pride" of Panther Pride will now disembark. The future is limitless. The benefits of education will now be realized. At right: Cindy Comings, Pat Faber, Sue Miller, and Dave Shakespeare demonstrate a true spirit, leaving the mark of East wherever they go.

Kotay, Ulrich Pioneer Council of '67

1st Row: Suzy Parker, Wilhelm, P. Harding, C. Raker, M. Kotay, K. Vranicar, L. Hoover, B. Light, B. Bieber, J. Berrier.

CLASS OF '67: Miles Kotay, President; John Ulrich, Vice-President; Pat Harding, Secretary; Suzy Parker, Treasurer; Ginny Drew, Historian.

AS WE LOOK BACK AT THE THREE YEARS WE HAVE SPENT AT EAST, THE MEMORIES ARE MANY AND VARIED. There have been joys and sorrows, gains and losses, victories and defeats; but most important, we have worked together and made East a part of each of us. We have united our efforts and shared our talents. We have learned the meaning of "pride" and have used it to express our hope for victory.

It is now time for us to leave East High as we each follow our separate paths. We leave our places to be filled and our tasks to be continued. Although we, the Class of '67, leave East this year, East will never leave our thoughts.

The Year of Panther Pride....

The year has come and gone. The 1967 ORIENS is completed. The work, the disconsolation, the satisfactions; all that is passed. Now, a pause for repose, serious reflection and acknowledged appreciation. We wish to first thank Mr. Bill Monteith, representative of Walsworth Publishing Company, for his exigent and timely counsel.

Our thanks also to Johnson's Studio and Mr. David Packer who so graciously provided the pictorial study of the year.

Now the 1967 ORIENS is completed. The events of the year, the unbounded pride of the students, the vast co-operation of the school organism has, we hope, been captured through its story.

Recalling that spontaneous spirit of Panther Pride has indeed been a pleasant task.

Kathy Bell and Keith Craig

Sandy, a really
